THE COUNTY CAPITOL.

Frank Johnson Wants His $3,000 Back-State of Kansas Insurance Case,

Things are quiet at the courthouse today. Probate Judge Eiliott is in the country and there is a lull in the marriage license business.

Only one case was filed in the district read. clerk's office, that of Frank L. Johnson who desires that he shall be freed from the judgment recently found against him which gives his wife a divorce and alimony in the sum of $3,000. He says that when his wife, Eva, filed her suit he filed a counter petition, and put his case in the hands of J. G. Waters, who neglected it, and he did not know that the case had been tried and settled until he was arrested for contempt in not fuifilling the orders of the court, He now asks that the decision be set aside. In his petition Johnson says that otherwise unfitted to a livelihood and that he has not $3,000 nor any other considerable sum, and thinks that Mrs. J. is much better able to earn a living than he is. Johnson now lives at Atchison.

In the District Court. Arguments were made today in the district court in the case of Kansas against the New York Life and 14 other insurance companies. The cases were brought by Insurance Commissioner Suider to compel them to pay a license to do business in Kansas, Judge Webb represented the state and D. R. Hite the companies. THEY SHED TEARS.

The Appeal of the auffragists Affects the Committeemen.

There were tears shed and handkerchiefs were freely used by the delegates serving on the committee on resolutions last night while they were listening to the appeal for a suffrage plank in the platform.

The committee on resolutions held its sessions in Lincotn Post hall, and immediately after the committee organized by the selection of J. W. Forney as secretary, a delegation of suffragists, including Susan B. Anthony, Mrs. Laura M. Johns, Mrs. J. Ellen Foster and Mrs. Noble Prentis, appeared in behalf of the suffrage plank.

Mrs. Johns was the leader of the delegation, and presented her case just as she has already done before many audiences this spring and summer.

The hard hearted men of the committee became tender hearted under the appeal of Mrs. Johns, and a number of wet eye lashes called handkerchiefs

Mrs. Johns offered the following plank, which she sald would be acceptable to the women of Kansas:

Resolved, That, as in the words of Abraham Lincoln, we "go for all sharing the same privil-eges of the government who assist in bearing its burdens," we favor the adoption of the pending woman's suffrage constitutional amend-

Miss Anthony then spoke. Among other things she said:

I stand here to represent the women of Kansas, nothing else. Those women who cannot speak for themselves, and those who are not so fortunate as others who say they would not vote if they could. This same experiment of treachery in the Republican party has become tiresome. This will not be a dead weight measure; it will be a magnificent balance of power which you cannot afford to lose. If you leave it out you are dead. "Mrs. Noble Prentis touched the committee when she said: "We want an opportunity to put our energy and brains against the Populist women. We can win under those circumstances. If this plank is rejected we can't help you, for our hands are tied."

Mrs. Foster then made a speech, which was in substance the same she made before the convention in the afternoon. Miss Shaw made the closing argument for suffrage, and the committee listened to an appeal for a prohibitory

The committee from the ministerial union and from the meeting held yester-day morning, were both before the committee, and were listened to with attention. Rev. A. S. Embree presented the following plank, which he said would be acceptable to the prohibitionists:

Resolved. That we are in favor of the due and equitable enforcement of all existing laws and pledge ourselves to the enactment of such new laws as may be necessary at any time for the promotion of the moral and civil welfare of the people of Kansas.

The committee then adjourned , for an hour and when they reconvened a large mass of petitions and memorials was turned over to a sub committee to be

It is the general understanding among the managers that Cy Leland is to be elected chairman of the new Republican state central committee.

In the convention this morning Pat Coney made a motion that the election of secretary and chairman of the central committee be left with the state officers elect instead of with the members of the committee.

Coney's motion was promptly squelch. ed, but when the convention adjourned at noon, it leaked out that Coney's motion was simply a "feint" made to satisfy the delegates when the announcement is made that Cy Leland is elected chairman. GEORGE MARTIN'S EDITORIAL, He Tells His Friends Not to Sulk, and Says He Won't.

The Kansas City Gazette, Geo. Martin's paper, this evening contained the following double-leaded editorial: The Gazette's candidate for governor today is Major E. N. Morrill. He was nominated by the Republican state convention last night, and today the Gazette raises his name as the standard bearer, and will keep it there until the polls close on election day. To the friends who so gallantly stood by us during the contest we have not words to express our thanks. For their unselfish support and friendship our obligation is eternal, our devotion sincere. To go down in a fight with such friends we consider a great honor.

With the loyal band that stood by us we enter the campaign to redeem Kansas, shoulder to shoulder with those who voted for Major Morrill This is not a year for sulkers, and it will not be friendship to us for anyone to sulk. Vote the ticket from top to bottom, and vote it Never a county stood by a candidate with more fealty and truer friendship than has Wyandotte by Geo. W. Martin. With the same enthusiasm Wyandotte county will now stand up for Major Morr ll, and lead in the list of Republican counties this fall. The Gazette is for Major Morrill and the rest of the ticket.

MAJOR E. N. MORRILL.

Biography of the Republican Numines For Governor of Kansas.

Major E. N. Morrill, the nominee for governor was born February 12, 1884, in Westbrook, Cumberland county, Maine, and was educated at Westbrook academy. He learned the tanner's trade, but became a school teacher, presumably when equipped with thorough knowledge concerning the art of tanning. In 1856 he was a member of the Westbrook school board and in that capacity examined an applicant for the school, Thos. B. Reed, the famous ex-speaker of the lower

Mr. Morrill arrived in Kansas when 28 years old, a short time after starting Mr. Reed's name thundering on to glory. This was 1856. With others, he founded a town a few miles west of Hiawatha. They named it Hamlin, after the Maine statesman who became vice president. Mr. Morrill built a saw mill on his farm, borrowing the money to buy machinery. The mill burned. He had no insurance and he gave up his claim to settle the debt.

Morrill was a member of the first Free State legislature. One of the bills he introduced proposed forming a new state that should embrace all the present Kan-sas and the best part of Nebraska. The bill was defeated. In 1861 he enlisted in the Seventh Kansas Cavairy. He served throughout the war, most of the time as an officer detailed for special work. Returning with the title Major, he gave his attention to the real estate and banking business.

In 1872 and 1876 he was sent to the state senate and in 1882 he was one of the four congressmen selected to represent the state at large. In 1884, 1886 and 1888 he was re-elected to congress, und in 1890 declined to again be a candidate. He made the interests of the old soldiers his special hobby. He studied the pen-sion system and during his eight years' service in congress was the authority on pension questions. He was the main working member of the pension committee from his first term, having been placed on that committee in preference to any other. He was chairman of the committee on invalid pensions during his last term of office and introduced what is known as the Pension Disability act. In addition to his being the author of this

TWO WEDDINGS.

Two Affairs of Note in Topeka Society Circles.

The garden party in honor of Miss been the anticioff last evening and under the most proassociate justice of the supreme court of | pisious circumstances, although the air was not quite as warm as some of the girls with airy dresses might have wished. Misses Madge and Mabel Johnson and Virgiline Mulvane were attenwas overlooked which could have added to the pleasure of the hour. The beautiful lawn surrounding Judge J. B. Johnson's home was a fairyland indeed, with vari-colored lanterns twinkling among the trees and, together with big headlights disposed to the best advantage, it was almost as bright as day. Many pretty nooks and retreats were discovered dimly lighted and fur-nished with rugs and divans, and hammocks swung invitingly at every hand. A platform was erected near the house, and Watson's orchestra in a gay little tent played lively music for the devotees of the dance. In a summer house, close by, ices and punch were served during the entire evening. The parlors were at the disposal of the guests also, and in the first were masses of June roses at the base of the miror. in bowls and vases, and long branches of the prairie queen were fastened over the portieres and windows. Sweet pease and daisies, and the delicate asparagus, were all arranged artistically, and completed the charming picture made by the receiving party. Miss Madge Johnson wore a gown of yellow silk mull, the bodice alternately shirred and puffed. The neck was cut out round, and the puffed sleeves reached to the elbow, and she carried yellow roses. Miss Mabel Johnson wore pale pink

Miss Virgiline Mulvane was attired in a dainty frock of white silk mull; the square neck outlined with an accordeon shoulders. A deep flounce of accordeon plaited mull was caught with smart little bows, and the sleeves were puffed to the station, where he will be held for exam-authorities in congress regard the defeat of the state bank measure as profoundly significant of the future of banking and currency in the United States. It is said to establish as a finality that state banks and state bank currency will' never be revived, and that if any change is made from the present system of national banks, it will be a nationalized currency.

This construction of the vote is arrived at by a careful analysis of the sectional character of the vote. Of the northern Democrats only eight voted to repeal the restrictions on state banks, viz: Cali-

The bride was charming in a gown of pure white silk with garniture of old points. The style was extremely simple, with a high collar and long sleeves, and a tulle veil fastened in the high coiffure with white rosebuds hung to the hem of her gown. She carried a point lace handkerchief and bouquet of bridal roses.

Immediately after the cermony a reception was given at Mrs. Wharry's home for the immediate friends, and the parlors were decked with daisies and greenery. The bride and groom were assisted in receiving their guests by Mrs. Wharry, in a black cloth gown with trimmings of white silk and handsome black lace; Mrs. J. D. Cruise of Kansas City, in a blue silk gown, and Mrs. G. J. Bishop of Kansas City in white lace with lace shoulder ruffles. In the dining room a white and green effect prevailed and a very handsome wedding cake, the gift of the bride, graced the center of the table. Mr. Cruise is the Topeka manager of the Armour Packing Co., and is a thoroughly estimable man, while his bride is a young woman of whom any man might be proud. They will be at home to their friends after June 20th, at 514 West Sixth street. The out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cruise, Miss Eileen Cruise, Messrs. Geo. and Gerald Cruise, of Kansas City; Mrs. G. J. Bishop, Miss Grace Proudfit, and Miss Fannie McDill of Kansas City; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Black of Olathe.
